INTERN INSIGHTS

HEBERT LIMA

Guest Services Intern, Philadelphia Eagles
Temple University - Grad Student

➤ INTERSHIP RECAP

Hebert Lima first got involved with the Philadelphia Eagles by volunteering with the organization - an experience that eventually led to his internship. After making connections through those volunteer opportunities, he applied for the internship directly on the team's website and was selected for the role.

During his internship, he gained hands-on experience supporting large-scale events like the FIFA Club World Cup, concerts by The Weeknd and Metallica, and Eagles training camp. Those experiences taught him how to stay calm and effective in fast-paced, high-pressure environments. He also learned the importance of clear communication, especially when coordinating across departments or assisting international fans using his Portuguese and Spanish skills to help resolve issues quickly.

➤ PRIOR EXPERIENCE

Internships with Event Management at the Univ. of South Florida & the US Squash Open

➤ DREAM JOB

To work in the international department of the National Football League.

HEBERT'S TIPS

Volunteer whenever possible. Volunteering gave me hands-on experience and helped me build connections, which I was later able to highlight during my interview. I'd also say network intentionally and treat every opportunity as a chance to learn, because in sports even the small roles can open doors.
